FONTBONNE UNIVERSITY

ABOUT FONTBONNE

Fontbonne University is a Catholic co-educational institution of higher education offering liberal arts and professional programs in a values-based, student-centered environment. Nearly 2,000 students annually take advantage of the university's high-quality academic programs and close-knit campus community. Founded in 1923 and still sponsored today by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, Fontbonne is located in Clayton, Missouri, a beautiful suburb in the heart of the St. Louis metropolitan area. Fontbonne's programs, faculty and campus attract students from across the U.S. and many other countries. Forty-five undergraduate majors and 17 graduate programs create a relevant, well-rounded offering of academic interests. The university is an NCAA Division III school and a member of the St. Louis Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, sponsoring nine men's teams and eight women's teams. At Fontbonne University, students not only learn more ... they can be more.

KANSAS CITY SPORTS COMMISSION

ABOUT KANSAS CITY SPORTS COMMISSION

The Greater Kansas City Sports Commission and Foundation (GKCSCF) has been focused on using sport as a vehicle to enhance the community since its inception in 1966. Most recently, the GKCSCF successfully secured 16 NCAA championships in the 2014-18 seasons. This was the largest number of championships awarded to any city during the bid process. Bringing these events to Kansas City, the GKCSCF not only provides prominent sporting events to residents of the Midwest and the nation, but also has delivered an economic boost to the Kansas City metropolitan area. As a nonprofit membership organization, the GKCSCF has been able to bring an unrivaled energy and life to Kansas City through the passion sports fans feel in supporting their favorite teams, athletes and events. Since 1990, it has helped generate more than $750 million in revenue for the region. If it's sports and it benefits the Kansas City metropolitan area, we bring it.

On Campus: Randolph-Macon's Sarah Nieburg
THINKING GLOBALLY

Submitted by Sarah Nieburg

Before the game in Tamale, Ghana, members of the team broke out in dance and posed for photos with Sarah Nieburg.

Sarah Nieburg spent her childhood traveling for soccer, but last summer it took the Randolph-Macon College student-athlete farther than ever: to rural Ghana, where she spent six weeks encouraging gender empowerment through sport.

Using a $10,000 grant from the Davis United World College Scholars Program, Nieburg supplied balls, cleats and uniforms to two teams in northern Ghana. The players were girls ages 12 to 17, and next to the practice fields, each team had a one-acre plot of land where they could plant crops to sell for school supplies and sanitary needs. Nieburg, an international studies major who graduated this past spring, provided each team with $500, plus funds from harvesting can be used for soccer gear the following year.

The culmination of her trip was an organized match sponsored by Right to Play, which uses sports to educate youth. The goals were made of nailed-together wooden sticks; sideline officials used branches for flags. While the field equipment wasn't ideal, the girls played before more than 1,000 spectators, and for many, it was their first time competing in a real game.

After the match, Nieburg noticed one of the girls crying. The match was the first time the 16-year-old's parents had come to watch her play. "I even started sobbing," Nieburg said. "The parents now realize that this has such a positive impact on their lives. Her parents are now proud of her."

Randolph-Macon recently awarded Nieburg with the Pepper and Stuart Laughon Commitment to Community Award, which came with $1,000 to donate to a Randolph-Macon program of her choice. When benefactor and alumnus Pepper Laughon heard about her program, he donated another $2,000 to the team to continue the work Nieburg started in Ghana.

"YOU'RE NEVER TOO YOUNG TO ... MAKE A GLOBAL IMPACT."

DeSales University's Alyssa Brandt has made numerous international humanitarian trips.

During her first humanitarian trip to Haiti at age 15, Alyssa Brandt saw a boy with malnourished skin that was rotting and falling off his body.

"You don't really understand the concept of heartbreak until you see something like that," she says.

A passionate mission has driven her since, steering Brandt toward a pre-med biology major and triple minors in chemistry, psychology, and sport and exercise at DeSales University. She's made four more trips to Haiti, one to Africa and another to Honduras — while also competing in soccer and track and field at DeSales. Brandt, a senior, has received offers to medical schools and plans to become a surgeon. Her ultimate goal: to one day establish a clinic in Haiti.

"I've been reaffirmed that I'm on the right path," she says. "Somebody has to do something."

What it means to wear a uniform.

Wearing a uniform isn't all about the colors and the shoes. It's about teamwork, leadership, dedication, and sheer drive. All stitched together to create something bigger than yourself. Every day, we wear ours with pride. Thank you for doing the same.

WIN EVERY ROAD GAME.

In college sports, the road brings pressures that aren't for the faint of heart. Champions find a way to win away from their friendly confines. For us at Infiniti, the road is where we're most comfortable, where we help put drivers in more control of their journey. Student-athletes know there's nothing like commanding the road. So do we.

NCAA PRESIDENT MARK EMMERT

Dr. Mark Emmert guides an NCAA committed to providing the best possible opportunities and experiences for college students both on the field and off.

We gather today from different backgrounds and regions of the country to cheer for our favorite teams and celebrate our alma maters. But let's not forget why we're really cheering. College sports, our iconic and treasured American pastimes, are so much more than what you'll see in these championship events.

This year, more than 54,000 student-athletes will compete in an NCAA national championship and share with their teammates a unique sense of joy and accomplishment. But I've seen time and time again how the student-athletes who are succeeding at the highest level of sports competition are also achieving impressive academic success and giving back to their communities. One of them at the final site of this very championship will be honored as the sport's champion student because he or she holds the highest grade point average among the event's competitors. The Elite 90 award honors their achievement because it represents everything for which the NCAA stands.

Athletics plays an essential role in those accomplishments: student-athletes consistently tell me their love for their sport is what drives them to succeed. Ultimately, it's the success they experience not only on the field, but in the classroom and in life that makes these championships so meaningful.

Athletics plays an essential role in those accomplishments: student-athletes consistently tell me their love for their sport is what drives them to succeed. Ultimately, it's the success they experience not only on the field, but in the classroom and in life that makes these championships so meaningful. It's a chance for us all to stand and cheer on the next generation of leaders and innovators who will ultimately drive progress in our communities. It is why the commitment to higher education is a value we all share. And when we cheer for them at these events, we're really celebrating the hard work, determination and perseverance that helped them ace the test — in their sport and in their studies.

A lucky few will hoist a trophy in the air when events like this one are finished, and they will hear the cheers of their elated fans. Just remember that along the path to those 90 moments, more than 19,000 teams will share in a meaningful journey they will carry with them for the rest of their lives.

I'm glad you're here to celebrate one of those moments of student-athlete success. Enjoy the championship.

The Value of College Sports

Nearly 1,100 colleges and universities collectively invest in the experiences of student-athletes. Each year, more than 460,000 NCAA student-athletes gain skills to succeed on the field, in the classroom and for life.

Graduating from college is as important as winning on the playing field.

More than eight out of 10 student-athletes will earn bachelor's degrees.

Graduation rates for student-athletes as a group are higher than for their peers in the student body.

NCAA sports give young people opportunities to learn, compete and succeed.

NCAA schools award more than $2.7 billion in athletic scholarships every year to more than 150,000 student-athletes.

More men and women are competing in college sports than ever before.

The NCAA promotes the well-being of student-athletes.

The NCAA Student Assistance Fund has distributed more than $300 million during the past five years to help student-athletes with essential needs.

The NCAA's Sport Science Institute promotes safety, excellence and wellness in student-athletes, fostering life-long physical, mental and emotional development.

NCAA sports help student-athletes develop leadership, confidence, discipline and teamwork.

Student-athletes benefit from NCAA programs supporting leadership opportunities, internships, degree completion and postgraduate scholarships.

NCAA sports help prepare student-athletes for success after graduation.
